

Unemployed Fathers Get Raise To $1.25

Over 1,100 unemployed fathers of dependent children in Perry and Knott Counties got pay raises from a dollar an hour to wages averaging $1.25 an hour, the national legal minimum, as a result of a $9.6 million grant of anti-poverty funds to Kentucky two weeks ago.

Depending upon the need of a worker's family, as determined by the local office of the Kentucky Department of Economic Security, a father can earn up to $1.52 an hour with the average for all men, about 3,600 of them in nine Eastern Kentucky counties, $1.25 an hour.

But even the $1.52 an hour workers will be allowed a maximum of only $250 a month. The old maximum was $160 a month.

The difference is that under the Economic Opportunity Act, the present source of money, man's wages are figured on 100 per cent of his need, as opposed to 70 per cent of his need when the federal funds were made available through the Social Security Act.

Under the new arrangement, individual skills are supposed to be a factor in determining how long a man must work for the pay he gets. A painter or skilled carpenter, for example, may work fewer hours to receive the payments for which he qualifies, while a man performing unskilled labor will be required to work longer for what he receives.

Aaron Paul, State director of public assistance, said that more emphasis will be placed on benefits to the individual under the new program.

An estimated 14 per cent of the 3,000 jobless fathers will qualify for the maximum payments a month. Other checks will be scaled down according to need, with the number of dependent children a man has determining the amount he will receive.

As the workers pay takes a jump, so does the number of workers on the rolls.

During December in Perry and Knott Counties, 96 more unemployed fathers were assigned to work crews, bringing the total to around 1,200.

That figure is indefinite right now because each month some individuals leave the programs, occasionally for full-time jobs somewhere.

The 96 fathers were among 147 people, all told, who found jobs of various kinds through the local employment office in December, out of a total of 310 that applied.

The number of persons filing initial claims for unemployment compensation last month was down from the total in December, 1963.

Last month, 312 new claims were filed, compared to 380 a year ago.

The new claims brought to 1,736 the total number of weeks of compensation claimed in December, 1964.

No new public work projects were reported last month.

Four Perry Coal Firms Sue UMWA for Millions

Four Perry County Coal firms have filed a multi-million dollar suit against the United Mine Workers.

The complaint was registered in Federal Court at Jackson with the trial set for May 17th.

The four firms filed the $5.5 million dollar suit last February for damages they charged took place during the labor unrest in the Eastern Kentucky coal fields in 1959.

Plaintiffs in the suit are: the K&K Coal Company, the Ritchie Coal Company, the Watts Coal Company and the Chavies Coal Company. They charge the union or its representatives violated the Sherman Antitrust Act.

In the Senate, "will make it possible for our local communities to build facilities to encourage industry to use the great resources of the region." Cooper added that "The spirit of the people in this region has remained high despite the unhappy problems of unemployment," but he said that "increased flood protection, greater water resource usage, new roads, more hospitals, and land improvement are vital if our people are to use modern technology to work to provide for their families and communities."

In discussing the proposals in the bill—which received high priority as the third bill introduced in the Senate—Cooper recalled that he and others began work on this legislation in the Senate in 1959. Both President Kennedy and President Johnson acted on the recommendations of the Governors of the Appalachian States, and last year the Senate Public Works Committee reported the bill which was finally passed by the Senate.

Senator Cooper said that the Public Works Committee would also be looking into the problems affecting the coal mining industry in the region, and into the roads of local communities which must stand a share of the cost of certain types of flood protection projects.

Catholic Official Gives Assurance Of New Mount Mary Hospital

The Diocesan Director of Hospitals for the Catholic Diocese of Covington has said that the Benedictine Sisters will definitely re-build Mount Mary Hospital.

This assurance was given to Hazard Doctor Eli C. Boggs by the Right Reverend C. A. Towell at a recent conference in Covington, and released to the Hazard Herald in a telephone conversation this morning.

The news comes as a surprise to most Perry Countians, who had last been told that the Sisters had given up their idea of re-building Mount Mary because funds were not available, and that they would build a nursing home in Hazard instead.

The Reverend Towell said this morning that the nursing home announcement had been premature, and that the Sisters "are definitely going to build a new hospital."

The Sisters released a statement today which said, in part: "The Benedictine Sisters have been conducting the Mount Mary Hospital in Hazard since 1947. The original hospital which was a proprietary institution has been in existence since 1924, and was purchased by the Sisters.

"Improvements have been made from time to time but because of fire hazard and the worn out condition of the present building these beds have been declared unacceptable by the Public Health Agency.

"The Sisters are anxious to continue the work in which they have been engaged in the area for 17 years and the physicians and the Community feel there is a need for this type of hospital.

"The project will consist of 63 beds as follows: obstetrical, 13 beds; medical, 30 beds; surgical, 20 beds. There will also be x-ray, laboratory, emergency and other adjunct facilities necessary for successful operation of the hospital."

The hospital is to be constructed near its present site, on land to be cleared by the High Street Urban Renewal Project. The City of Hazard is now in the process of purchasing property in the renewal area and demolishing sub-standard structures there as they acquire them.

Mount Mary will continue to operate in its present facility until the new hospital is completed.

Funds for a new Mount Mary, expected to cost over a million dollars, have not been fully obtained, but a major step towards getting them is expected to come this month when representatives of the Hazard medical profession and the Benedictine Sisters meet with the Kentucky Hill-Burton Board in Frankfort.

The Hill-Burton Fund is a federal fund set up to aid the construction of hospitals in the United States. Each state has a board which must approve a hospital's request for Hill-Burton money.

The Sisters appealed to various agencies of the federal government last year for construction funds, but without success.

At one point, Appalachian Regional Hospitals, Inc., invited the Sisters to assume managerial control of Hazard Appalachian Hospital instead of building a new one but the Sisters were not interested in running a hospital they didn't own.

After months of frustration, Mother Benedict, Mother Superior of St. Walburg Convent in Covington, together with attorneys for the Sisters, met in Hazard last April with local doctors and community leaders to discuss Mount Mary's future.

The doctors and community leaders pledged the support of Hazard to the Sister's efforts; but it wasn't until the Sisters announced plans to build a nursing home instead of a general hospital that the community became aroused.

When the announcement was made, local civic organizations and formal bodies such as the City Commission and the Perry County Medical Society passed resolutions supporting Mount Mary as a general hospital, and otherwise attempted to enlist public aid on behalf of the Sisters.

The Reverend Towell said he expected to have other public announcements after his meeting with Kentucky's Hill-Burton Board.

Proposed Mount Mary Hospital

This is an artist's concept of the proposed Mount Mary Hospital that, according to a statement by the Director of Hospitals for the Catholic Diocese of Covington, will one day stand near the present site of the hospital. The new, modern structure is to have 63 beds, and is expected to cost over a million dollars.

Matlick, of Frankfort, State campaign chairman, The drive begins on February 1 and continues through the month.

Working as a team will be Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Bates, Hazard, as county co-chairmen. This will be the third year the Bates' have served in this position.

Mr. Matlick's announcement also noted the appointment of the following area chairmen: Mrs. Thelma Napier, Airport Gardens; Mrs. Clara Lykins, Walkertown; Mrs. Betty Shepherd, Lothair; Mrs. Thelma McIntyre and Mrs. Louise Ward, co-chairmen for Vico.

Vico Ladies Hope For Scouts, Little League

The Carr Fork Ladies Organization, a newly-formed group of women in the Vico area, are now making plans to organize a Boy Scout Troop and Little League Baseball for local youth, according to the group's president, Mrs. Justine Combs of Vico.

The group also hopes to establish a recreation center for young people in the Vico area, and is now busy renovating the old union hall there for that purpose.

To raise funds to finance the project, the ladies have sponsored a bake sale and a sock hop so far, and other similar activities are planned.

The group meets each Monday at 7 p.m. at Vico's town hall to make plans for better youth recreation facilities and invites all interested women of the neighborhood to come to the meetings.

Mr. Arnold Branson, Jr., Clerk of the City of Vico, announced today that there will be a meeting of the citizens of Sassafras, Yellow Creek up to the school and Red Oak, with the Board of Trustees of the City of Vico, to explain the advantages of these communities being annexed by the City of Vico.

The meeting will be held at the Lodge Hall in Sassafras, Friday, January 15, at 7 p.m. All citizens are urged to attend.

Brother's Death Hospitalizes Mayor

Mayor Willie Dawahare was hospitalized Monday due to shock of the death of his brother. His condition is listed as improved.

Fire Department Called Out Twice

The Hazard Fire Department answered two calls Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The first alarm was a grass fire on Orchard Heights in Wabaco.

A 1959 model auto caught fire on the By-pass Tuesday night. The car had reportedly been driven with the emergency brake on. Damage to the auto was slight.

Elmer Roll Hurt When His Auto Hits Parked Car

A Hazard business man Elmer Roll of Walkertown was injured in an automobile accident shortly after dark Monday night.

Roll was driving a 1962 model auto North on highway 15. He apparently blacked out at the wheel causing the car to veer off the road and strike a parked auto belonging to Kenneth Justice of Darfok.

Roll was injured and taken to Appalachian Hospital where he is listed in fair condition. He suffered lacerations about the face and an apparent concussion.

Damage to Roll's car was estimated at $300.00.

The 1955 model auto belonging to Justice was a total loss.

The accident happened on highway 15 near the Mother Goose Market.

Kentucky Congressmen Introduce Area Bill In House, Senate

Appalachian Recovery Bill, Left Dormant In House Last Year, Gets New Life In House, Senate, From Perkins, Cooper

Senator John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky) today joined with Senator Jennings Randolph (D-W. Va) and other Senators in introducing the proposed Appalachian Development Act of 1965. The bill goes to the Senate Public Works Committee, on which both Cooper and Randolph serve, and the Committee is expected to take action very early in this session of Congress.

Senator Cooper, who co-managed the Appalachian Bill which passed the Senate with bipartisan support last year, said that the new bill would authorize a five year development program costing close to one billion, one hundred million dollars in the Appalachian Region, which includes 49 counties in Eastern Kentucky. He said that he and Senator Randolph had worked on revisions since the last Congress adjourned, and that they had decided to propose that the mileage of authorized access roads be doubled—from 500 to 1000. This mileage would be in addition to what is authorized for building interstate highways across the region, and it brings the total mileage of new roads proposed in the bill to 3,350.

"This development program," Cooper said

Perkins Submits House Bill

WASHINGTON—Major emphasis to road construction water, sewer, and other public works, flood control, and health facilities was given today by Congressman Carl D. Perkins in introducing the Appalachian Development Act of 1965.

Perkins, in his remarks on the Floor of the House at the time of the introduction of the new legislation, cited steadily declining employment in the coal and related industries, the lack of financial resources to construct roads, bridges, flood control projects, water, sewer, and other public community facilities as creating a condition so severe in the hardships imposed upon the people in Eastern Kentucky's Appalachia that Federal financial assistance to undertake these projects was necessary in providing a stable economy.

The Perkins Appalachian Development Act would authorize the construction of 2,350 miles of major highways in Appalachian and 1,500 miles of small byways to serve specific residential, recreational, educational, or industrial needs.

"Of major importance" said Perkins, "was the feature of the legislation which would greatly expand the community facilities construction over previous versions of the legislation by extending the Accelerated Public Works program in the Appalachian region with an additional authorization of $500,000,000 to enable the construction of water and sewer facilities, city streets, public buildings, and other public works where they were necessary in developing the economy of communities."

Perkins termed the legislation a "National Investment" in an eleven-state area of the U. S. with vast undeveloped resources and potential but which had long been neglected and bypassed by economic development programs.

The road construction features of the legislation were emphasized by Perkins in his remarks because as he said, "The construction of roads and highways throughout Eastern Kentucky and all of Appalachia will erase its isolation and will permit natural economic forces to allow Appalachian families to enjoy the general prosperity of the nation."

Perkins cited the critical lack of ready access to public facilities, schools, hospitals, public libraries, courthouses, and markets — "so necessary for the everyday needs of American families today."

The Perkins Appalachian Bill would authorize the appropriation of $1,840,000,000 for road construction and $823,200,000 for the construction of community facilities, health centers, a coordinated flood control program, and the construction of additional educational facilities to serve all areas of the region.

Perkins expressed the hope that the House Public Works Committee to which, under the rules of the House, the legislation had been referred, would conduct early hearings and take prompt action to see that the measure cleared the House of Representatives at the earliest possible date.

Junior Chamber of Commerce Reports That 1964 Is Banner Year For Clubs

Harold Hudson, District Vice President of the Kentucky Junior Chamber of Commerce, announced that 1964 was a banner year for Jaycee clubs in the mountains. At the beginning of 1964 there were clubs in Hazard, Harlan, Whitesburg, Pikeville and Prestonsburg. The Hazard Jaycees have increased from 54 men to 66 men from all parts of Perry County. The Hazard club was also instrumental in getting two new clubs formed in Knott County and in Breathitt County. Both the Knott County Jaycees and Breathitt County Jaycees have over 35 men each in their club. The Pikeville Jaycees chartered a new club in Paintsville with over 30 young men. This indicates a growing concern by the responsible young men of Eastern Kentucky to make their community a better place to live, work and raise their families. I have traveled over 6,000 miles and made over 35 visits to Jaycee Clubs in Eastern Kentucky in 1964, and everywhere I see young men who have visions of a more beautiful Eastern Kentucky. The Jaycees are an organization of young men between the ages of 21 to 35 and their goal is leadership training and community development. As long as there are young men in Kentucky who care enough to work for their community after working hours and on weekends, we can say with pride, "Eastern Kentucky is the most beautiful place to be."

Harlem Stars Play Here January 15

Hey, Mom, don't look now but the hilarious Harlem Stars are coming to Hazard.

The big show comes off January 15th at 8 p.m., in Memorial Gym here in Hazard.

Providing the opposition will be the Hazard All-Stars. The All-Stars are a group of former local cage stars.

A good prelim will kick off the evening's entertainment. The first and second place teams in the Hazard Grade School League will be featured at 6:15 p.m.

Further details and an All-Star roster will be printed in Monday's sport section.

The hilarious Harlem Stars are coming to town. Advertised as the greatest and funniest basketball team in the country today, the Stars are a combination of Negro Stars who tour the World making fans laugh.

When the name Harlem Stars is mentioned, hoop fans get ready for an evening of entertainment. Fans will see a fancy exhibition - Razzle Dazzle ball handling, intricate routines, both planned and impromptu comedy and all sorts of "shenanigans".

The Harlem Stars are unique in the fact they never try to run up a huge score against opponents. It is their policy to keep the game close devoting much time to comedy stuff.

The Harlem Stars enjoy playing basketball every day even if they have to travel hundreds of miles to do so. The Stars began their season in Alaska the last week in September and will hit between thirty-six or forty states and the following other countries: Mexico, Canada, Australia, Japan and some parts of Europe. The round horsehide is the magic carpet that has taken these basketball jesters to all parts of the world.

Magicians is what owner, Boid Buie calls them. Referring to his Harlem Stars when they begin their zany antics on the basketball court - razzle dazzle ball handling, intricate pass patterns, trick shooting, marathons dribbling and impromptu comedy antics all go to make this the greatest show in the business. "Go Man Go" really describes the Harlem Stars when they are on the court.

Napier's Defeat By Whitesburg, Attributed To "Cold Shooting"

Cold shooting from the field cost the M. C. Napier Navajos a victory Tuesday night as the Whitesburg Yellowjackets defeated the Redskins 57-52 at Memorial Gym Tuesday night.

Whitesburg took a 13-9 lead after eight minutes but Napier went on top 17-16 on a two-point shot by Mark Fugate with 4:30 left in the second period. Whitesburg came back and outscored Napier 9-4 in the next 3:30 to take halftime lead 25-21.

Napier pulled within two points of the high-spirited Jacks on several occasions in the third period but couldn't regain the lead.

Mark Fugate led Napier scoring with 11 points, while Brack Baker was the only other Navajo to hit twin-figures with 10.

Steve Frazier and Gary Boyd led Goebel Riter's jackets with 12 apiece.

Napier had only 13 fieldgoals as compared to 21 for the stingy Jacks. The Navajos won the free-throw battle 26-10.

Napier's next action will be Friday night in Lee's Junior College Gym against the Jackson Tigers.

In the Freshmen Game, Tuesday night Napier won this one 52-22 over the Whitesburg yearlings.

Governor Asking Clergymen To Condemn Reckless Driving

LOUISVILLE — Clergymen of all faiths were urged Tuesday to join the highway safety campaign by declaring careless driving a sin.

Gov. Edward T. Breathitt also suggested that the state observe a "religious traffic safety week" during which sermons would be preached on road safety and special programs held for Sunday school and young adult classes.

"I believe the observance would bring results and focus attention on the moral responsibility for the prevention of highway accidents," the governor told students of Kentucky Southern College.

He said there is a moral responsibility attached to driving and added:

"More and more people are realizing that God's commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill,' applies to a person with the wheel of a car in his hand as well as the person with a gun in his hands."

Breathitt said, however, no program can be successful unless there is strict law enforcement in all 120 counties.

"It is important that voters require candidates for county offices to have a good understanding and appreciation of highway safety," he said.

The highway death toll in 1964 was 910, the worst in state history.

School Uses New Methods

A Kentucky school is the first in the nation to combine closed-circuit television and a modern computer laboratory into a system to teach engineering.

The unique system is set for use at the University of Louisville's Speed Scientific School.

Forty television outlets in the school's classrooms, laboratories, library and auditorium will be served by the closed circuit. Each receiver location may also originate television programming.

The system includes a 27-inch Verne E. Baxter of Slate Run Road in New Albany, Indiana, a member of the staff of U. of L.'s Institute of Industrial Research, will direct operation of the television circuit.

Baxter, formerly chief engineer for United Electronics Company, helped plan and build station WKY-TV, Louisville's newest commercial television broadcasting station.

Experiments are now under way at Speed School to develop a method of teaching foreign languages using the new system. Besides use in language classes, the system may be coordinated with courses in structural linguistics and mathematical linguistics for new opportunities in the area of automatic translation.

"This system takes advantage of contemporary technology to meet the increasingly sophisticated requirements of engineering education," Ernst said.

Other uses for the unique system include the television showing of micrographs made by the school's electron microscope and day to day lecture and film showings.

Students at Speed School are given a computer course during their second year and are responsible for their own computer programming under the supervision of Professor Alfred T. Chen, assistant professor of mathematics. A similar arrangement is being made for use of the new system.

"The students themselves, working with their teachers, will help to perfect the system and to discover new ways of applying it," Ernst said.

Arthur Dixon of Letcher County Gives Graphic Story of Gun Presentation

Mr. W. P. Nolan

The Hazard Herald

Hazard, Kentucky

Dear Pearl:

I am attaching hereto a short story and some pictures of the Kentucky Flintlock Long Rifle which was presented to President Johnson at the White House on December 15th.

I have been delayed in getting this information to you because the pictures were late in getting to me.

We are sending like information to the National Rifle Association, Washington, D. C.; The National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, Shelbyville, Indiana, and to the National Sports Foundation at Riverside, Connecticut. They all want to run the article in their magazines. They are very anxious to do this at this time because of so much talk about stringent gun legislation at the national level.

Trust you and Mrs. Nolan are getting along just fine, and I wish for you a very bright and prosperous New Year.

Sincerely yours,

—Arthur Dixon.

Notes on President Lyndon B. Johnson's KENTUCKY LONG RIFLE

By: Arthur Dixon, maker, Whitesburg, Ky.

For quite some time some of my friends and I here in Letcher County had felt that we would like to give President Johnson some kind of little token in appreciation of his efforts to relieve the distressed and to do something for the people of the Appalachian territory, and especially Eastern Kentucky. We felt that nothing would be more fitting and proper than to give something symbolic of Kentucky, since some of President Johnson's ancestors came from Kentucky, what would be more fitting than a Kentucky Flintlock Long Rifle, the kind used by Daniel Boone and made famous by him and his companions in the Happy Hunting Ground.

The White House was contacted by Whitesburg Lawyer-Author, Harry M. Caudill, and word was received that the President "would be delighted" to receive such a gift from the people of Eastern Kentucky. A date was then set by the President for the presentation, but the gun was not completed.

Then began the task of building a "Kentucky" suitable for the President of the United States. This took us to Harlan County, Kentucky, where we found a beautiful piece of shell flame and curly maple in the possession of Mr. M. H. Young, who very graciously donated the wood. The barrel was obtained from Mr. W. M. Large, the master gunsmith from Ironton, Ohio. The flintlock and triggers were made by Bob Roller of Huntington, W. Va. The butt plate and trigger guard were purchased from a foundry in Pennsylvania. The patch box was made by Mr. Cecil Brooks of Lowell, Ohio.

The most tedious job was the inlaying of the metal parts into the wood. The writer made all the other inlays, including thimbles, and piece, foreend piece, eight pointed star, toe plate, Texas longhorn head, opposite lock plate and barrel pin escutcheons from sheet silver. The hickory ramrod was spiraled to look like the originals. The name plate (opposite lock plate) was engraved by Mrs. Mildred Shepherd of Whitesburg, Ky., as follows:

"Presented to Lyndon B. Johnson,
President of the United States,
by the citizens of Eastern Kentucky."

The gun was finished by the chronic acid stain process as recommended by Mr. La Dow Johnston in the October 1961 issue of Muzzle Blasts.

The gun was finally completed on August 15, 1964, and taken to the Bank of Whitesburg, where space in the lobby was very graciously furnished by the bank officials. A register was left by the gun and the public was asked, if they so desired, to leave small donation to help pay for the gun. Hundreds of people, including many school children, viewed the gun and left donations, some of the children giving nickels and pennies from their lunch money, in order that they might help make history by donating something for a present for the President of the United States.

The gun was presented to the President by the writer on December 15, 1964, at the White House. Congressman Carl D. Perkins of Kentucky was present and the following invited guests: Harry M. Caudill, Mrs. Harry M. Caudill, Stanley Hogg and the writer, of Whitesburg, Ky.; Kenneth Back, Chief Finance Officer of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. Back; Emory L. Frazier, Clerk of the U. S. Senate and Douglas Cater, Aide to President Johnson.

When the gun was handed to the President he remarked that some of his ancestors came from Kentucky, and that, "I appreciate it and thank you. It will be taken to my ranch home in Texas and placed over the door without being sullied by powder and ball, and we will start us a little museum." He then stroked the gun and said, "It's beautiful; it sure is beautiful."

The President was also presented with the following accessories: An honorary life membership certificate from the National Muzzle Loading Rifle Association, and a letter from Merrill Deer, President; a fancy hunting pouch made and donated by Mr. Harry R. Merkle of Union City, N. J.; a fancy coonskin cap made and donated by Mr. Tom Pike of Lisbon, Ohio, and a fancy powder horn from my collection. Our acknowledgements would be incomplete without mentioning Mrs. Maxine Moss, Editor of Muzzle Blasts, who arranged for the honorary membership and the coonskin cap.

Remarks on the maker of the gun:

For the past 28 years previous to January 1, 1962, I was connected with the county government of Letcher County, Kentucky, in various capacities. For 12 years I worked in the Sheriff's office as office deputy; four years as stenographer to the County Attorney; four years as County Judge pro tem, and eight years as elected County Judge.

I have always been interested in wood-working and especially making the old muzzle loading guns, but had very little time to devote to such work while connected with the county. I did, however, make a few guns along and also some Appalachian plucked dulcimers. Since January 1, 1962, I have devoted full time to my hobby. In all I have made eight or ten Kentucky Flintlock Rifles and over 100 dulcimers.

President Johnson's Gifts

Pictured above are the gifts presented to President Lyndon B. Johnson by former County Judge Arthur Dixon of Letcher County and Attorney Harry Caudill. The gifts came from Southeastern Kentuckians in appreciation of President Johnson's interest in this area.

The Governor Speaks

LET'S LOOK IT OVER

By

Edward T. Breathitt

Frankfort—

Frankfort—In a recent column I pointed out the accomplishments of this administration's first year in office and promised to outline our future goals at a later time. With the new year arriving tomorrow, I think now is the time to view these goals.

Careful management of the State's affairs to effect a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars under the model purchasing law passed by the 1964 General Assembly will be one of my very important goals during 1965.

While not receiving as much publicity as some other governmental subjects, this new purchasing law in just a few months has graphically demonstrated its worth. Too, it is in keeping with my pledge of "honest government, efficiently operated."

By lumping the purchasing requirements of various State agencies for certain items, by revising specifications to benefit the State in other instances, and by a resulting increase in the number of bids, we have been able to save surprising sums of money.

For example, paint was one of the first items for which standard specifications were completed. On the first order, by combining all the paint orders from all our departments, we reduced the total cost by about $14,000. And on paint brushes, we saved $9,800.

For another example, on the first three orders for furniture cost was reduced by more than $50,000. Savings on an annual basis in this field alone are expected to exceed $200,000.

There are any number of other examples that might be cited to illustrate benefits possible under the new purchasing law. I believe we will save materially in purchases of police cruisers, school buses, and gasoline — even on fishpond fertilizer.

In an effort to find out how to save in the consolidation of as many purchases as possible we are taking a hard look at every requisition from every agency.

During the course of my administration, we will be getting the same quality merchandise, but we will be saving millions of dollars by efficient, frugal management of affairs.

This is money saved that can be put into education, which I still regard as the key program in Kentucky. For the first legislative biennium of my four-year term I have met every commitment to education.

As another goal for the coming years of my administration, and in order to give the public better protection I intend to push ahead as strongly as I can with improvement of our regulatory agencies such as the banking and insurance departments. I have initiated this by setting up standards tightening requirements for the approval of the sale of securities.

Another of our intentions for 1965 is to push forward just as rapidly as possible our agricultural program for ultimate development of a $1 billion farm economy for Kentucky. The 12 committees of the Commission on Agriculture have just met and given their initial reports, with many fine ideas. We hope to make effective strides in this area in the New Year.

In 1964, we more than doubled the 1963 investment in new and expanded industry for Kentucky. With 22,700 more people employed in October than in the same month of 1963, we were well ahead of our goal of 75,000 new jobs during my administration. We resolve to continue hard, productive work in these fields.

A recent innovation in Kentucky government was the formation of a committee to draw up a master plan for the state's development during the next 10 to 20 years. The purpose is to design each of our programs so as to meet the needs not only of the present, but also of the future.

Kentucky's efforts in the development of its programs will tie in with the efforts of President Johnson to eliminate poverty in our state and nation so far as is possible.

Kentucky folks know by this time that I will do all I can to promote passage of the proposed bond issue of $176 million for roads and capital construction. This, like revision of our State's Constitution, is a non-partisan objective and for the good of our state should be supported by all Kentuckians, regardless of party.

One of the vital items facing us this year is a greater effort to protect the lives of our citizens on the highways. We have a good Department of Public Safety, but we will need support in the 1966 Legislature to provide more money to hire more troopers to do a better job.

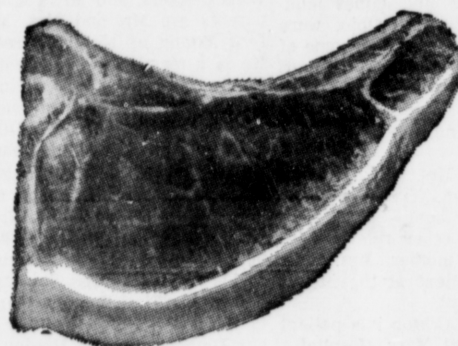

I think we have run a good government during our first year in office. We've made some mistakes, but I assure you that when we make a mistake, we are going to admit it and do our best to correct it. Our government is running smoothly. We're going to do our best.

1-Day Conference To Explain State Matching Funds

The formula for distributing $115,000 in State matching funds for advertising local tourist attractions will be explained at a statewide, one-day conference on tourism called by Governor Edward T. Breathitt.

The conference will begin at 10 a.m., Wednesday, January 13, at the Sheraton Hotel, Louisville.

Breathitt said all Kentuckians interested in the development of the tourist and travel industry are welcome to attend the conference.

Under an act of the 1964 Legislature, the $115,000 will become available next July 1. Money from this allocation will be used to match funds raised by cities, counties, individuals or organizations to promote local tourist attractions.

All-Time Mining Safety Record Set In State

An all-time record for safety in underground mining has been set in Kentucky, State Mines and Minerals Commissioner A. H. Mandt has announced.

No fatal accidents occurred underground in the state's mines from September 25 through December 7 — an unusual total of 73 fatality-free days.

"This is a direct result," the commissioner said, "of the industry's efforts to eliminate roof-fall accidents — the Number One Killer in Kentucky mines."

In addition, November was completely free of any fatal mining accidents, above or below ground. This is only the third such month in the entire 85-year history of the Mines and Minerals Department, the other occasions being January 1955, and October 1963.

Even so, Commissioner Mandt noted, further improvement in safety is in order, "but can be realized only through increased efforts to make our coal mines safe places in which to work."

These efforts are, in fact, being made. This year, the department conducted well over 10,000 inspections, helping to hold fatal mining accidents down to less than one for every 1,820,000 tons of coal produced.

A further step is a new program to train inspectors in extinguishing fires in an experimental mine. As it was, 11 actual mine fires were put out during the past twelve months.

Dependent Parents Receive Social Security Benefits

"Today we would like to discuss a benefit of Social Security that is infrequently paid but still exists in the law," noted John G. Graves, District Manager for Social Security in Hazard. At the present time 26 dependent parents receive $1654.00 in Perry County as a result of their claim. "In fact," Graves noted, "only 77 parents in the entire 8 county area serviced by the Hazard Office qualify."

"Most older folks," Graves commented, "are eligible for Social Security on their own records or as a wife or widow. In the above cases the parent not otherwise eligible could qualify on their child's account."

If a worker dies, we can pay benefits to his mother and father if they meet the following requirements:

1. The mother or father must be 62 years of age.
2. The worker who died must be their son or daughter and be insured under Social Security.
3. The mother or father must be dependent upon their child who died. By dependent, Graves stated, the mother or father must have been receiving ½ of their support from the child who died.

Anytime a worker dies who has a Social Security number someone should contact our office. We can generally pay some benefit. If there are any parents who might qualify based on the above requirements they must file a claim with us within 2 years of their child's death. For any answers to your questions about Social Security get in touch with the Hazard Office at 135 Memorial Drive, or call 436-3148.

SAUL

Two Baptized at Leatherwood Church

By Ambrose Rice

The Leatherwood Sunday School met for the last time in 1964 December 27th. 83 were present that day and according to the record, we found our yearly week as follows: lowest attendance 13, largest attendance 103. There has been exactly 2,550 attended this year of who we have on our books besides our visitors.

It would take one person going to Sunday School every day in the week 7 years and one month to attend that many classes. If he just went to Sunday school once a week it would take him 49 years and 2 months, so there has been a life time of Sunday school held in this building in 19 4.

I as superintendent am especially proud of the attendance. Our Regular Church service was Saturday and Sunday after Sunday School was over. We took two down to the lake and baptized them. Robert Lee Price and June Lawson. Although the weather was chilly it was not too cold for the baptism of these two converts.

Mary Barger has returned home from Hyden Hospital where she spent a week. Every one is hoping for a speedy recovery.

Pettie Smith and Sam have visited Mrs. Smith's mother, Mary Barger through her illness.

Robert and Hazel Rice of Austin, Indiana, visited her mother, Mrs. Matilda Couch at Austin visited their parents at Saul for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Finley and son from Ohio visited in Saul this week.

Denver Barger and family of Austin, Indiana, visited Mrs. Barger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Woods for Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. William Tommy Bowling from Austin, visited Mrs. Bowling's father and mother, Harlan and Nettie Woods of Saul for Christmas.

Woodrow Bentley of Hyden held a four night revival here last week with two converted. Granville Barger and family, Rachel and Boone Bowling, and Walter Barger and family from Ira Barger Cemetery.

After Church Sunday there was a funeral at the Baptist Church at Saul for a 2 month old baby, Fred Sandlin of Les. lie County. Burial was in the Ira Barger Cemetery.

Anti-Poverty And The Jobless Fathers Pay Raise

The raise in pay for unemployed fathers of dependent children who work on the various public projects around the county is welcome news.

The raise, which will boost the earnings of the average worker to about $1.25 an hour, the legal minimum wage, will help the 3,600 families in nine counties live more than a marginal existence, while more permanent solutions to their poverty are being sought.

The raises were made possible when the works projects program was transferred from the Social Security Act to the new Economic Opportunity Act. The pay scale for the fathers is now based on 100 per cent of their need, instead of only 70 per cent, as Social Security provided.

In layman's language, this means that the most needy fathers are now permitted to earn a maximum of $250 a month, instead of $160 a month as before.

The raise will have two immediate effects that, on the whole, will be good for the community. Local employers will be encouraged to pay their own workers wages closer to the legal minimum of $1.25 an hour, a move that ultimately is in the favor of the businessman himself, since, quite obviously, the more a worker earns, the more he has to spend in local stores.

The other immediate effect of the raise is also good news for local merchants in that Eastern Kentucky stores are bound to appreciate the increased buying power of 3,600 families of unemployed fathers. A total of 1,100 of these families are located in Knott and Perry Counties alone. Though the funds are federal and therefore part of the generally false economy of our region, the money is certainly welcome until our economy once again is self-sustaining.

It must be kept in mind, though, that projects such as the unemployed fathers are engaged in are, for the most part, still only welfare, and not genuine "anti-poverty" measures.

We tried to explain this distinction in an editorial two weeks ago. Welfare funds are the kind that only sustain life, on a day to day and year to year basis. Food stamps and disability payments are examples. Anti-poverty funds are, as defined in the Economic Opportunity Act, funds that will change the environment of an individual or an area so that the poverty-cycle can be broken, so that a man or a community can once again become master of his own destiny.

On paper, the public works projects are anti-poverty efforts, in that the workers are supposed to be receiving job training, to prepare them to make their own way in the world. "Give them the work experience" in order that they may become "more employable" is the formal way of putting it. If the public works program was, in actuality, honest job training, then it might in truth be called an anti-poverty project. But no one who understands the nature of the projects is fooled. For want of tools and professional supervision, most of the projects are mere make-work putting in time to "justify" the old dollar an hour, and, now a dollar and a quarter an hour.

Aaron Paul, State Director of Public Assistance, has said that under the new arrangement with the Office of Economic Opportunity, more emphasis will be placed on the individual. Training to make the workers "more employable" is to be stressed. He adds, according to a newspaper article, that "in some cases," the fathers will be paid for going to vocal classes instead of working along highways or in creek and river beds.

Formal vocational training for the unemployed fathers gets a lot closer to the solution of their problems than work along highways and in creek beds. Therefore we have to ask, why vocational training in only "some cases?" Why not in all cases? Admittedly, all the men are not equally trainable. Perhaps some are not trainable at all. So why not make efforts to determine the true abilities of the men, train them, in classrooms, for whatever they are capable of learning, and let only the untrainable do such work as cutting weeds and patching roads by hand?

As long as these men remain on the works crews, without professional supervision, they will not be trained. That is a fact. And as long as they are not being trained, their situation is not being fundamentally affected, poverty is not being fought. At best it is only being stalemated, and we can't be satisfied with a stalemate in this war on poverty. If we are going to fight we must fight to win a total victory. A compromise, a negotiated truce won't do.

The Appalachian Volunteers

The Appalachian Volunteers, students from 18 Kentucky college campuses who have taken Eastern Kentucky's plight as a cause, are a stimulating group of young people to observe.

Ambitious, eager, imaginative and intelligent, these young men and women are added proof that not all America's college generation is concerned only with fraternity parties and football games.

The Volunteers spend weekends in the Kentucky mountains, helping to repair remote school houses, working with mountain children as tutors and recreational supervisors. Exposed to young adults fresh from college campuses, the horizons of the children are broadened, their vision of the world is extended beyond the confines of their narrow hollows.

Only a year old, it is too early yet to evaluate the effect the Appalachian Volunteers will have on the Kentucky mountains. Whatever the details of that effect will be, it is obvious that its overall impact will be good.

Alone, of course the Volunteers will not wipe out poverty in the mountains. But they do point in the general direction of the only way our condition will be truly changed. And that is to educate the children, to convince them that, through education, a kind of productive life is possible, and desirable, even if they have never seen examples of it in their native environment.

One immediate effect the Volunteers have on most adult mountaineers who see them in action is mild shame. They wonder why it should be left to students from other parts of the state and nation to come into a Kentucky hollow and repair the school house? Why can't local men and women, on their own Saturdays and Sunday afternoons, pick up hammers and nails and get to work on the building where their children receive what education they get?

That is a good question. Another one is, How many college students from Eastern Kentucky belong to Appalachian Volunteers?

Ravenna Better Than Hazard?

The other day the Herald was asked why it made such a big fuss about trying to attract industry to the Hazard community. Didn't we know that the federal government was going to take care of our problems through the President's "war on poverty?"

If that kind of thinking is typical of those Hazard leaders who are failing to take the proper initiative to get industry, then the town's chances for a future are dim indeed.

That kind of thinking would indicate that Hazard businessmen have fallen into the same pit that has trapped so many Eastern Kentuckians, the pit where an individual loses his energy and his initiative, and finally comes to the point where he prefers to have someone else solve his problems for him.

If Hazard leaders have in fact fallen into such a dilemma, then the irony of the situation is almost too much to bear. For it is Hazard people who have always thought so highly of themselves, and, until lately, with full justification. Hazard people have traditionally thought of themselves as those who can get things done for the sake of the community.

Well, Hazard isn't doing anything for itself in the way of attracting small industries to the community. And it's going to be a shameful day indeed when Hazard folks are forced to admit the truth, to acknowledge that places like Ravenna, Blackey and Middlesboro are better places than Hazard is, because the people there are working together, and the fruits of their cooperation and energy are apparent in the small industry that is cropping up in those communities.

The Herald last week suggested that the Hazard Chamber of Commerce is the appropriate body to mobilize this town's energy and leadership into one solid approach to the job of attracting industry here. Middlesboro has set the example by preparing a factory and a site as a lure to industry. Hazard needs to do the same thing. The Chamber of Commerce is the proper agency to do it. We hope it does. And we will express that hope from time to time.

Dear Mr. Nolan:

Please permit me to use the columns of your paper to express my gratitude to those citizens of Perry County who contributed funds to help pay for the Kentucky rifle which was recently presented to President Lyndon B. Complains Against Home Inspection

Editor, Hazard Herald:

In your issue of December 24th you ran an article head d "CITY REVISES PLAN FOR COMPLIANCE WITH L.G. AL HOUSING CODE," wherein we are informed that we have "tain length of times in which to bring our homes up to sta ard set by the city. This provided for by ordinance da d January 5, 1959.

I wonder how many of the citizens of Hazard know just what this ordinance provides and why it was passed. This ordinance was instigated and passed as a requirement for the city to have URBAN RENEWAL. So Urban Renewal touches every resident of Hazard, not just the people in the areas affected.

One provision of the ordinance is that every resident of Hazard must allow free access to their homes at the demand of the City Inspector.

Maybe the citizens of Hazard do not object to such inroads of their rights and privacy, and we are content to stand idly by and submit to provisions of the police state. This is one of the prices we pay as a more progressive community than Lexington, Owensboro, Dallas, Texas, and others that rejected Urban Renewal because of such provisions of the program.

Dear Editor:

Since the first of the New Year is the usual time for making resolutions, and in view of the fact that law enforcement at all levels in Perry County and Hazard as well, has completely broken down, I suggest that the people of this County Resolve to vote only for men who will commit themselves to full enforcement of our laws.

UK Students Use Vacation To Work At Mountain School

by GURNEY NORMAN

Three college students arrived late Monday in the isolated Knott County hollow of Lick Branch, three miles from Ary up a road of frozen mud, to devote the last week of their Christmas vacation to local children and their little one room school.

By Saturday, they hope to have erected a fence around the school's outdoor concrete basketball court, painted lines for various games on the concrete slab, installed a sink inside the school, spread sawdust trails along muddy paths to outdoor toilets, tutored children in special subjects, entertained them with live music and stories, and, in general, to have provided mountain children with an experience unique to their young lives.

The college students are Appalachian Volunteers from the University of Kentucky.

The Lick Branch project is only one of many carried out this school year by Appalachian Volunteers from 18 Kentucky college campuses. But, according to project leader Joe Mulloy, a UK sophomore English major from Louisville, the Lick Branch effort is unique in that it is the first week-long project so far attempted by the Volunteers.

The others have been limited to weekend or Saturday visits to communities such as Lick Branch.

Mulloy describes the week in Lick Branch as a pilot project, a forerunner of similar efforts to come. He says the Volunteers are now making plans for another week of work during the Easter vacation, and for a large-scale project to last most of the coming summer.

To help the Volunteers and the Lick Branch students get to know each other, regular teacher Loren Kramer, a California native and Berea College graduate, devoted most of Tuesday morning class time to a study of the Weekly Reader, a newspaper published especially for grade school children.

Each of the Volunteers—Mulloy, Rick Tarrent, a sophomore Chemistry major from Owensboro, and Marshall Thompson, freshman Civil Engineering major from Louisville—took charge of a group of children and spent a couple of hours going over the paper, discussing news events of the day.

By recess time, about ten o'clock, the children had overcome their initial shyness and were calling their visitors from UK by first names, inviting them to participate in recess games.

Mulloy used the break to discuss with a reporter the philosophy that motivates Appalachian Volunteers.

He described that involvement as a kind of protest against social conditions such as poverty and poor education. He associated the activities of the Volunteers with other forms of student protest that arise from time to time in the United States.

"But ours isn't a sit-down protest," he emphasized. "We get out here and work."

Asked if he thought his college generation was any different from the one that preceded it, Mulloy said it was.

"Ours feels more of a sense of involvement," he said. "There's a feeling of non-involvement running in this country, but our generation is definitely a moving generation."

After recess, the children returned to the classroom to hear Volunteer Smith play folk songs on his banjo.

Obviously delighted, the children pressed closely around Smith, applauding when he finished a selection, and singing along at first timidly, but gradually with enthusiasm, when he played a tune they knew.

The Volunteers had a portable tape recorder with them, and after Smith's banjo concert they turned it on and the voice of professional folk singer and song writer Billy Edd Wheeler rang out with "The Appalachian Volunteer Song," written by Wheeler.

With copies of the song in hand, the children listened to Wheeler sing it through once, then sang along with him when it was re-played.

The Volunteers planned to record the voices of the children this week and let them hear themselves talk. They also brought along several educational records, classical music records, albums, wall maps and some books, to donate to the school.

Though it suffers from most of the usual limitations of the one-room mountain school, limitations that a visit by Appalachian Volunteers do not correct, Lick Branch has a distinct advantage over most such schools in its teacher, Mr. Kramer.

An articulate, educated and obviously dedicated young man who lives and teaches in the mountains because he wants to, Kramer is, in a sense, an Appalachian Volunteer who works the year round on Lick Branch.

Though the neat school, polite children and new concrete outdoor basketball court are reflections of a teacher's good leadership, Kramer credits the community with whatever distinction his little school enjoys.

He says the respectful attitudes of Lick Branch adults toward work and toward education shows up in the children. "The whole community is united behind the importance of education," Kramer said. "The degree of cooperation here is outstanding."

Whatever Kramer's problems as the only teacher of 24 children in eight grades, one of them isn't remembering the names of his students. All their last names are either Stacy, Ritchie or Combs, old Lick Branch families.

And if Kramer doesn't forget the names of his students, they and the Appalachian Volunteers from UK aren't likely to forget each other, either. Chances are, after a week of work, study and play together, their unique mutual experience will leave an indelible stamp on all their minds. If it turns out that way, then the basic purpose of the Volunteers' visit will have been achieved.

Letcher County News Notes...

At Whitesburg workmen are shining up the New Court House, and getting it ready for occupancy in about three weeks so a workman has said. It is a beauty and will be a Monument to its sponsors for a long time to come.

The writer talked to the Major, and Captain of the Salvation Army Team that is in Whitesburg to help in the distribution of clothing, and maybe some money to the needy in the County. I don't think anyone could ever go wrong to trust anything to the Salvation Army's care.

Soon there will be candidates a plenty in Letcher County. Johnny Fulton has said he is a Candidate for County Judge of Letcher County in the Primary coming up in May. Johnny is well known and is a good man.

Cordia, wife of Lee Church who preceded her in death, died Friday, New Year's Day on the upper head of the Kentucky River. She was the mother of six boys, and eight girls. She was living at the home of one of her sons when she passed away.

LIFE AS A FLOWING RIVER

Paint for me a picture of a flowing river
Paint it on a Desert where no river ever flowed before;
Paint it of life going on where
No life has ever gone before
Paint it of a sower, sowing seeds,
Where no seeds were ever sown before
Paint it of love going on Where no love ever has gone before

I was thinking about that Picture, THE MONA LISA, when I wrote this poem, and Life going on from day to day where no day has ever been before. Literally over a Desert.

Mr. Hubert Fuller is a salesman for Belknap of Louisville, Ky., and Mr. Tommy Fuller is office manager for New York Life Insurance Company. Tommy and his Father both were graduated at the FLEMING-Neon High School, and lived here in Letcher County.

Mr. Bruce Bell, a young man 21 years old who has just been discharged from the United States Army, whose home is San Bernando, California, and a good looking fellow, has just returned to Haymond, and it seems didn't try to go any further. He says he likes these hills, and our girls.

George Tolliver, of Haymond, has just made a round of hospitals, and is in good shape. He first went to the Clinical Hospital at Jenkins, for treatment, from which he was sent to the Norton Infirmary Hospital at Louisville, where he was operated on to remove a tumor from his colon. George looks in good shape now and says he feels good. He is a man liked by a lot of people.

The Whitesburg City Council has repealed its Right to Work Ordinance passed some time ago, and we, the Union people who were opposed to it thank them heartily, and want to show the people of Whitesburg that we owe them no ill will by going back to do such business as is necessary and good.

Frankie Collins, and Charles Wilder, left Haymond, Monday going to Charleston, West Virginia, on their way to Paris Island, where they will be inducted into the United States Marines—two good boys.

Retardation Classes In State For Sixty-Six School Districts Reported

Sixty-six Kentucky school districts provide special classes for retarded children while 148 do not have a special program for these children, Dr. Stella Edwards, director of special education at the State Education Department has reported.

Dr. Edwards' survey of what public schools in Kentucky are providing for retarded children was the first report of her task force on school and classroom program delivered to the Kentucky Commission on Mental Retardation.

The planning group—to define the state's needs, resources, and needed developments in mental retardation—met at the State Health Department building recently.

Based on the U. S. Office of Education's estimates, Kentucky has some 17,546 retarded children in its school census of 763,171 youngsters between the ages of six and 17. During the last school year, only 3,692 children between the ages of six and 21 were provided for in special public school classes.

Acting Mental Health Commissioner Dan S. Tuttle reported that his department's mental retardation division is undertaking a master file to determine the number, case histories and other data on all mentally retarded persons in the state. Occupational training work.

Your correspondent will celebrate her birthday January 8. Lone Pine Baptist Church of the Left Fork of Mason's Creek had an attendance of 55, collection of $179.66.

Your correspondent and daughter Brenda, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Moore Sunday evening. We played Rummy Popped Corn and had a real old fashioned good time.

Pvt. James W. Brummett returned to Fort Knox Sunday, January 3, after spending the holidays with his parents (your correspondent) and friends.

Our deepest and sincerest sympathy goes out to the Cornett family in the loss of their husband and father, Mr. Lafayette B. Cornett.

The County employees are tearing down the old Rogers Branch School house on the left fork of Mason's Creek. The school house is about 30 years old.

Food Stamp Program Helped In 7 Eastern Kentucky Counties

Governor Edward T. Breathitt has approved a $40,334 grant from his contingency fund to provide administrative costs for the Federal food stamp program in seven Eastern Kentucky counties.

The seven are Owsley, Breathitt, Martin and Johnson, which will begin food stamp operations February 1, and Magoffin, Leslie and Letcher, which begins March 1.

Breathitt said the counties will provide an additional $8,133 for administrative costs to certify recipients and issue food stamps.

The grant will cover the administration of the program in the counties through July 1, 1965.

Addition of the seven new counties was made possible by passage of the Food Stamp Act of 1964 in Congress. Three counties, Floyd, Perry and Knott, had been accepted previously by the U. S. Department Breathitt said the money will be turned over to the State Department of Economic Security which will begin eligibility certification in the counties in January. The department also handles the issuance of stamps.

Presently, the seven counties are participating in the surplus food distribution program.

Breathitt said the principal advantages of changing from surplus food distribution to the food stamp program is the adding of fresh produce to the diets of families and the food stamps are redeemed by local merchants and therefore are an aid to the local economy.

The world's leading acoustical experts made the test.
The U. S. Auto Club certified the results:
at 20 mph ... at 40 mph ... at 60 mph ...

The 1965 Ford rides quieter than a Rolls-Royce!

...and now let's talk about some other Ford surprises...

Test-drive a Ford—and you're in for some surprises. Leading acoustical consultants conducted tests in which 1965 Fords (Galaxie 500 Sedan, XL and LTD Hardtops) with 289-cu. in. V-8 engines rode quieter than a Rolls-Royce. These tests were certified by the U. S. Auto Club.

When you feel a 1965 Ford in action—with the strongest Ford body ever... a revolutionary new frame that "tunes out" vibration... new ultrasoft coil spring suspension—you're bound to be impressed. But the ride is only one of Ford's surprises...

■ New swept-back instrument panel adds five inches extra knee room. ■ Transmission tunnel is lower for extra foot room. ■ Trunk has more space than ever—holds four 2-suiters standing upright. ■ Handy new "reversible" ignition key—works either side up.

■ Hot, but hushed, 289-cu. in. V-8 is standard equipment in XL and LTD models. ■ Smooth, thrifty all-new Bix Six in other models—the most powerful standard Six offered by any car in Ford's class. ■ V-8 options to 425 hp.

■ All Ford automatic transmissions have three speeds, not two as in some competing cars. Result: you pass faster, shift smoother, save on gas. ■ Fully synchronized manual transmissions—you can even shift down to first without clashing gears. ■ New Ford LTD 4-door hardtops have 10 courtesy lights, 5 ash trays. Upholstery treated to keep its beauty with Scotchgard® stain repellent. ■ Luxuries you'd expect only in the highest priced cars.

Surprised? You will be... when you visit your Ford Dealer and test-drive the Quiet One. Do it soon!

We are still Pilgrims

We no longer give thanks around a rough wooden table in a forest clearing. Our problems and rewards have taken different shapes too, but they are basically the same.

We are still making a pilgrimage, the same search for a fuller and more fruitful life under freedom of religion. And we are still thankful for the faith that sees us through adversity and guides us on that pilgrimage.

Thanksgiving Day was named for its meaning—the day that we come together to give thanks for our faith and our full life... and to remember that we are still pilgrims.

This Thanksgiving Day, give your thanks, strengthen your faith, enlighten your pilgrimage, at your place of worship.
